Her intellectual environment was characterized by a dynamic interchange of ideas, often emphasizing the importance of interdisciplinary approaches. This context allowed her to craft a multifaceted perspective that recognizes literature as both a linguistic artifact and a cultural text.

Theoretical Frameworks and Core Ideas

Reconceptualizing Literary Texts

At the heart of Rivkin's theoretical approach is a nuanced understanding of what constitutes a literary text. She posits that texts are not fixed entities but are fluid, interpretive spaces where meaning is constructed through complex interactions between language, context, and reader response. Her perspective challenges rigid formalist notions, advocating instead for a more dynamic, layered view of literature.

Intertextuality and the Fluidity of Meaning

Rivkin emphasizes the importance of intertextuality—the idea that texts are interconnected in a web of references and influences. This approach underlines that no literary work exists in isolation; instead, meaning is derived from its relationship with other texts, cultural contexts, and historical moments. Her analysis often explores how these intertextual links enrich understanding and complicate straightforward interpretations.

Reader-Response and Subjectivity

Moving beyond author-centered perspectives, Rivkin incorporates reader-response theory, acknowledging the active role of readers in shaping meaning. She argues that interpretive processes are subjective and context-dependent, and thus, literary criticism must consider individual perspectives and cultural backgrounds. This stance aligns with broader poststructuralist ideas about the instability of meaning.

Critical Pluralism

One of Rivkin's signature contributions is her advocacy for critical pluralism—the acceptance that multiple, sometimes conflicting, interpretations of a text can coexist. Rather than privileging a single "correct" reading, she promotes a dialogue among diverse perspectives, fostering a more inclusive and nuanced understanding of literature.
